Smoke 'em if you got 'em. For some, like the organizer of the pot-friendly Freedom Rally held annually on the Common, Boston's new ban on smoking tobacco, marijuana and vapor in parks is just a bunch of hot air.

Fines unlikely. Police will issue warnings to smokers in 251 of the city's parks, beaches, squares and cemeteries before $250 fines are handed out. PAGE 02

Smoked out of Hub's parks, beaches and Freedom Rally

What a drag. Metro examines the implications of a recent ban on smoking in public parks and beaches.

Two weeks ago the city made it illegal for anyone to smoke tobacco, marijuana and vaporized substances in its 251 parks, squares, cemeteries and beaches, but questions linger as to how the city plans on keeping people from publicly puffing, and whether the ban is even warranted.

The prohibition aims to reduce the threat of secondhand smoke inhalation and cigarette litter, and also strives to dissuade young people from picking up the habit, according to the Boston Public Health Commission.

Anyone who doesn't comply risks a fine of $250. But for the next few months, those caught lighting up may not have to dip into their cigarette funds, as patrolmen will likely hold off on issuing tickets.

"If [officers] see someone smoking, they will verbally urge that person to comply and explain why we have the ban in place," said Jacquelyn Goddard, spokeswoman for the Parks Department of Boston. "They will not be issuing the fines until a public education campaign is done. Even after the campaign, they will approach the smokers to give a warning."

And what about the Freedom Rally, a famously smoke-friendly gathering in the city-controlled Boston Common?

When asked what impact the ban would have on attendees of the annual event, which promotes the legalization of marijuana, Goddard said, "No group would be exempt from the policy."

Bill Downing, of the rally organizer Massachusetts Cannabis Reform Coalition, said the ban will not interfere with the group's plan to hold this summer's event.

"I think what's going to happen is what has happened in the past; [Boston Police] are going to walk in, and try to write a whole bunch of tickets," he said.

The rally issue aside, Downing said he believes the ban in general is "ridiculous."

"If you're smoking in a park, the chances of someone having lung problems from secondary smoke, I'd be willing to bet, are zero," said Downing, adding the disclaimer, "I'm not a f—ing scientist. I'm just a logical human being."

Michael B. Siegel, a professor of community health sciences at the Boston University School of Public Health, for the most part, agrees.

"Undeniably non-smokers have the right to not have to be exposed to significant health hazards that they don't have control over," said Siegel. "However, I think that banning smoking in these wide-open places doesn't make a lot of sense. It really goes beyond the health justification. ... I'm not aware of any data that shows that fleeting exposure to smoke in a park represents a significant health hazard, or poses a public health problem."

Tragedy. Siblings die while hiding in chest

A 7-year-old boy and 8-year-old girl have died after locking themselves in a hope chest during what appears to be a game gone wrong.

Police responded to a call for help in Franklin on Sunday night when the siblings were found unresponsive.

Norfolk District Attorney Michael Morrissey said a relative found the children inside a chest in a bedroom around 8 p.m., and that autopsies are set to be conducted today.

Officials said the maker of the trunk recalled the chests in 1996 because of the lids that automatically locked when closed. METRO

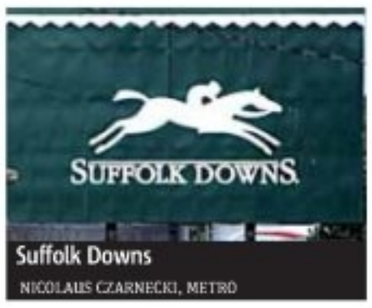
Walsh: Boston may be 'host community' to proposed casinos

Deadline. The city filed petitions concerning its surrounding community status.

Having yet to come to an agreement with casino developers in Revere and Everett, Mayor Marty Walsh's office filed petitions with the Massachusetts Gaming Commission that preserves "host community" status and the financial benefits that could come with it for the city.

The city on Monday petitioned the gaming commission for surrounding community status for the proposed Greater Boston casinos in Everett and Revere. But Walsh said in a statement that the petitions preserve the city's right to assert "host community" status.



Suffolk Downs
NICOLAUS CZARNECKI, METRO

Host communities generally get more benefits and revenue from the companies seeking to build a resort casino, whereas surrounding communities receive fewer financial benefits.

"We believe this unrestricted route is the best path forward to protect the residents of East Boston and Charlestown, and the city of Boston as a whole," Walsh said in a statement. "At any time, if the facts indicate that Boston is a host city, we preserve its right to withdraw from surrounding community negotiations."

Monday was the deadline for the city to petition the gaming commission as a surrounding community. A surrounding community is entitled to some benefits because of its proximity to a casino.

Mohegan Sun and Steve Wynn now have 10 days to submit to the gaming commission a response to the petition.

Moving on up

A 16-story tower housing students at the Berklee College of Music opened on Monday. The first student residents of the tower, located at 160 Massachusetts Ave., were welcomed with a red carpet and "bellhops" played by the college's Residential Life staff. About 360 students will call the glass-encased tower home this semester, according to Berklee. Also located in the building is a 400-seat dining hall, an evening performance venue and ground-floor retail space. A community-wide opening for the building is scheduled for next month.

If you planned on taking a road trip to Denver to cheer on the New England Patriots during the AFC Championship game, forget about it.

Tickets for Sunday's game in Denver went on sale Monday, but New England residents couldn't buy them.

The Denver Broncos website said that tickets were only available to those with a valid billing address in the Rocky Mountain region. The states include Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, Wyoming, Nebraska, Montana, South Dakota and western Kansas.

Tickets, available by phone and on Ticketmaster, were priced between $90 and $600. There was a limit of four per household.

NEW in the new year

Book club picks for 2014

We rounded up a year's worth of books you'll want to talk about constantly. EMILY LAURENCE

'The Invention of Wings'

By Sue Monk Kidd

The Quintessential Book Club Pick: Kidd's new book is just as poignant as "The Secret Life of Bees." Alternating chapters between a reluctant female slave owner and her slave, "The Invention of Wings" captures the complexity of black-white friendships during the 1800s and how difficult it was to be a woman of any race during that time.

'Soy Sauce for Beginners'

By Kirstin Chen

The Reinvention Story: Virtually everyone will be able to relate to the protagonist in this new novel. Gretchen does her best to pave her own path instead of doing what her family expects, which in this case is joining their soy sauce business. But after her marriage falls apart, she finds herself back home in Singapore doing exactly that.

Hillary Clinton's memoir

The Political Read: It doesn't even have a title yet, but everyone is already talking about the memoir Hillary Clinton is releasing in June. The maybe 2016 presidential candidate will reveal personal and political stories about her years as the Secretary of State. Debate her foreign policy and make predictions about her future with your political-junkie friends.

'Side Effects May Vary'

By Julie Murphy

The YA Pick: Due out in March, "Side Effects May Vary" features a 16-year-old diagnosed with leukemia with slim chances of survival. Don't worry, it gets more uplifting. She makes a bucket list of all the wrongs in her life she wants to set right before she dies. Then she goes into remission and must make good on her commitment. And there's a romance too, of course.

'Everyday Is for the Thief'

By Teju Cole

The Impressive Read: What started as a travel blog turned out to be Cole's next book (out in March). He returns to the open-air marketplace of Lagos, Nigeria, where tricking others is the only way to live. Capturing the complexity of both loving and hating where you're from, this is the book everyone will be talking about in 2014.

'To Rise Again at a Decent Hour'

By Joshua Ferris

The Social Commentary: If you loved Dave Eggers' "The Circle," you'll devour Joshua Ferris' newest, out in May. The novel is about a guy named Paul who gets impersonated online. But as Paul follows the fakery on Facebook and Twitter, he starts thinking this Paul is better than the real thing.

'Not That Kind of Girl'

By Lena Dunham

The Feminist Read: Dunham reportedly received $3.7 million for her advice book, due out in October, so let's hope she's doling out golden gems of wisdom. Her signature style of retelling traumatizing tales from her life will undoubtably make you feel better about your own. Topics you can expect to discuss over wine are virginity, eating and good old self-respect.

'Thirty Girls'

By Susan Minot

The Global Awareness Read: Out next month, Minot's gripping novel weaves together the stories of a Ugandan teen abducted by the Lord's Resistance Army and an American journalist covering the war. The war tests both women in devastating ways that will make you flinch, but you won't be able to stop reading. Minot intertwines their tales to tell a story of struggle and what it takes to survive.

Where to travel in 2014

Need inspiration for your travels in 2014? The Fodor's Travel 2014 Go List highlights 25 can't-miss places that should be on everyone's travel radar. The list incorporates everything from emerging destinations and new hot spots to noteworthy events and great values around the world.

Emerging hotspots: Discover these locales in 2014.

Cartagena, Colombia

After years of caution, tourists are now flocking to this stunning, historic walled city on the Caribbean coast of Colombia, which is experiencing a renaissance thanks to a cleaned up and stabilized economy. Direct flights from the East Coast and a boom of new luxury hotels make the trip easier than ever, and there's plenty to explore, from art galleries featuring work by local and international artists, to restaurants serving the freshest seafood and salsa dancing till the wee hours.

Ethiopia

Ethiopia is a cultural and historical treasure chest just waiting to be explored, complete with nine UNESCO World Heritage sites. Convenient and affordable flights connect its capital city, Addis Ababa, to the famous churches of Lalibela (dubbed "the second Jerusalem"), the colorful Lake Tana Monasteries and extraordinary Blue Nile Falls.

Bhutan

This tranquil kingdom in the Himalayas was closed off from the world for decades, only allowing tourism since 1974. But, those travelers willing to go the extra mile are rewarded with a traditional Buddhist society that also has embraced modern luxury and high style. Only two airlines are allowed to fly here, so the country remains difficult to reach, and that exclusivity is part of its allure.

CARTAGENA

Value destinations for travelers on a budget

Chicago

2014 marks the 100th anniversary of Wrigley Field, but the festivities aren't the only reason to visit. Chicago's star continues to rise thanks to culinary hotspots like Next and Alinea, exclusive bars like The Aviary, boutiques like Ikram (a favorite of Michelle Obama), and the nation's largest bike share program.

Douro, Portugal

One of the world's oldest wine regions and a UNESCO World Heritage site, the Douro Valley remains one of Europe's lesser-explored gems, but that may change soon. Recent awards for the country's wines, especially the affordably priced, deep, rich Douro reds and effervescent Vinho Verdes, have spurred renewed interest in the region. In addition to wine tasting, explore Porto, Portugal's famed second city perched on the ocean's edge.

Vienna

This classic European city mixes Austria's impressive history with modern attractions, rich arts culture and vibrant wine scene. Visit the new pedestrian "Golden Quarter," watch dancing horses perform at the Spanish Riding School (the world's oldest equestrian academy) or sip a glass of Viennese wine to experience why Vienna claims to be Europe's hottest wine destination.

Events

Prince Harry just returned from Antarctica — are you next?
GETTY IMAGES

This year is the time to visit these spots for noteworthy special events.

Antarctica

Antarctica's stark and sometimes dangerous beauty and engaging wildlife make it one of Earth's last untamed frontiers — and irresistible to explorers and travelers. Next year marks the 100th anniversary of Sir Ernest Shackleton's dramatic Imperial Trans-Antarctic Exploration, making 2014 the perfect time to consider an Antarctic cruise. Climate change is altering the continent, and this journey of a lifetime is a unique way to appreciate Earth's fragility.

Brazil

Expect an all-out party when the World Cup returns to this soccer-crazed country — hundreds of thousands of visitors will descend for the event, looking to cheer on their national teams in 12 host cities. More than 150 new hotels have opened in preparation, and the foodie scene continues to boom. In between matches, trek through the Amazon rain forest, ride into Iguaçu's raging waterfalls or enjoy a relaxing afternoon on Rio's stylish beaches.

Scotland

Scotland invites everyone with Scottish roots to come experience its rich culture for 2014's Homecoming, including a year-long calendar of activities from caber tossing at the Highland Games, to a re-enactment of the medieval Battle of Bannockburn, plus music, theater and dance festivals. Glasgow hosts the Commonwealth Games in July, and the Ryder Cup returns to the home of golf at Gleneagles in September.

"How I Met Your Mother" star Alyson Hannigan freaked out when her oldest daughter — Satyana, now 4 — started teething. "I had no idea what was wrong," she tells us. "She was just crying all the time and miserable. I took her to the pediatrician and he literally told me all I had to do was give her some Tylenol and it would take her pain away. It was that easy."

It's part of the reason why she teamed up with the medicine brand for Smiling It Forward. Parents can upload a photo of their little one to www.SmilingItForward.com, and for each photo uploaded Tylenol will donate $1 to the Children's Health Fund, a national nonprofit that gives free health care to kids who need it. We talked to Hannigan about some of the other surprises — besides teething — parenting brings.

You have two daughters, Satyana, 4, and Keeva, 1. What is Satyana into right now?
Oh, goodness. Right now, we're very crafty because of the holidays. We've been crafting a lot of decorations. And she loves it when I read to her. The girls have gotten to the point where they play together, which is so heart-warming. Sati also picks out all her own clothes, which is very colorful.

That must be interesting.
Oh, yes. It's always very interesting and very bright. She's pretty disappointed if I wear black. I finally got away with it by saying, "You know sweetie, black is all the colors — I'm wearing them all!"

Who do you go to and trade parenting advice with?
I talk to the other moms at my daughter's school and my best friend, Pamela Fryman, who is the director of "How I Met Your Mother." She's a fantastic mom. Her daughters were 12 when I met them and now they're 21. I'm always asking her for advice.

Which one of your co-stars is the best with kids?
Cobie [Smulders] is unbelievable. She's really fun and the kids fall for her. Jason [Segal] is sort of scared of babies, but he's good. He's just scared of touching them. He likes to keep his distance, but he's really good with them.

Aden + Anais launches bubble bath

Add some extra giggles to bath time. Mom-approved baby brand, Aden + Anais — a fave of the royal family's — just launched a new addition to their Mum + Bub skin care line: bubble bath.

Like the rest of their Australian Sandalwood scented bath collection, the bubble bath checks off just about every requirement on mom blogs. It's tear-free and free of sulfates, DEA, betane, phosphates, phthalates, parabens, synthetic dyes, harsh chemicals, gluten and soy.

So go ahead fill the tub and get ready for a glee-filled session of splashing.

You get what you vote for, America

Re: 'Bad economics' (Metro, Jan. 10-12) Letter writer Alton Lee and every American citizen should remember that no matter how dishonest, corrupt, incapable and incompetent our government is, no politician gets into office without being voted for.

When elected, their only interest is being re-elected. Blame the voters who tolerate this and return all politicians to office.

America needs voters of insight and wisdom and not non-thinking morons who just pull election booth levers.

Americans deserve the government they vote for. Blame the voters!

BRADY WITH A MOUNTAIN OF PRESSURE ON HIS SHOULDERS

On Tom Brady

Under the rules created by anonymous posters in online comment sections of Patriots game stories, Brady is at the head of the class in the "What have you done for me lately?" Hall of Fame.

You will hear all this week, ahead of the most important conference championship football game in the history of Earth, about how Peyton Manning has a mountain of pressure on his shoulders.

It's true. While Manning is largely regarded as the greatest regular-season quarterback of all-time, in the postseason, when it matters most, he ranks below the likes of brother Eli, Frank Reich and Jeff Hostetler. He is, as Boomer Esiason once said, "this generation's Dan Marino." He is statistically the best, but if there's a big game to win, there are dozens of other guys with less talent but bigger grapefruits that you'd rather have leading your team.

But in a career filled with opportunities like this, Manning has yet another shot to silence those who question his "clutch gene." Tom Brady, meanwhile, is fighting a whole different legacy battle. While Brady's mountain of pressure this Sunday is Wachusett compared to Manning's Everest, it is extremely worrisome for Patriots fans to think about the national dialogue if No. 12 loses on Sunday.

With a loss, Brady's head-to-head playoff record against

Opinion

MATTHEW.
BURKE@
METRO.US

Manning would be an even 2-2. Brady, who already has the strangest career arc of any great NFL QB, considering it makes no sense for a man to have become "un-clutch" after starting incredibly "clutch," would be 8-8 in the postseason since the Pats won their last Super Bowl with a loss on Sunday. And if Brady throws a few picks on Sunday and the Patriots lose, we will hear ugly statistics, like how in 11 of those 16 playoff games since the Pats won it all, Brady has posted a quarterback rating below 100.

Under the rules created by anonymous posters in online comment sections of Patriots game stories, Brady is at the head of the class in the "What have you done for me lately?" Hall of Fame.

Under these rules, Brady's loss last season in the AFC Championship game to the Ravens wasn't all that bad. The loss didn't come to Manning. It wasn't a one-and-done scenario. And it wasn't in a Super Bowl. The absolute worst offense for a quarterback, of course, is making it to the big game and losing it — but we'll cross that bridge in New Jersey two weeks from now, so long as the Patriots get there or so long as Chris Christie doesn't close it.

This Sunday, Manning's reputation as a playoff choke artist will be cemented if Brady and the Pats go into Denver and beat the Broncos. But Brady's reputation as an all-time great will take a legit pounding if things go the other way.

Yes, Manning and Brady are without question the two best quarterbacks of their generation. But this rivalry has always been part of a much greater debate — the most important football debate in the history of Earth.
